Find High Prices Dampen Holiday

By LOUISE COOK

Associated Press Writer

Consumers stocking up for the Labor Day weekend found plenty of beef in the stores for a change, but high prices put a damper on plans for holiday picnics and barbecues in some areas. "We'll be eating more corn on the cob than hamburger and hot dogs," said Mrs. John Oswald of Allentown, Pa., as she made plans for a holiday picnic. She said the family had "planned on hamburger and hot dogs" but changed to chicken because the cost of the poultry declined.

An Associated Press survey found supermarkets generally reported an adequate but not overly abundant supply of beef on hand.

O.G. Robertson, meat buyer for Schwegmann's Gentilly store in New Orleans, which bills itself as the world's largest supermarket, said, "I have plenty of meat and I have some red hot prices for Labor Day."

Robertson said top and bottom round steak was selling this weekend at $1.49 a pound, 30 cents less than the price in recent days.

"Beef prices have slackened a little," Robertson said, although he claimed he was making no profit at current levels.

Farm Prices Top All Old Records

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farmers are getting prices that average 62 per cent higher for their raw products than they did a year ago. The latest figure includes a 20 per cent rise in prices for August alone, the Agriculture Department has reported.

The department's Crop Reporting Board said many of the current prices are the highest in the century.

Corn, for example, was $1.15 a bushel a year ago; now farmers are being paid a record $2.68 per bushel, said the report. And wheat rose $2 in the last month alone to a new high of $4.45 per bushel. Last year wheat was selling for $1.51 per bushel.

The report, issued Thursday, covered the month that ended Aug. 15. Thus, it gives a picture of what happened to raw product prices in the month that followed the Nixon administration's lifting of price controls on July 18 of all food products except beef.

Beef controls will be removed Sept. 12.

The Agriculture Department made no attempt in the report to correlate the prices received by farmers with what consumers are paying at the supermarket. However, department officials said at least part of any increase in prices received by farmers ultimately is passed on to the consumer.

Department officials said that Several Dallas stores said that declining livestock prices at wholesale markets should filter down to the consumer soon—perhaps even before the Sept. 12 expiration of the beef ceiling.

Lloyd Burleson, manager of Gerald's Meat Market said, "We're in a waiting period. There may be a drop in the beef I've been getting out of Denver—but it's hard to say."

The high price of beef has caused some problems for the Navajo Indian tribe of Window Rock, Ariz. The tribe throws a free barbecue for visitors and reservation residents each year and normally attracts more than 100,000 persons.

"Normally, beef is donated by area ranchers," said John Nelson Dee, who is in charge of the 1973 fair which starts Sept. 5. "But the steers are worth so much that this year, no one was able to help out," Dee added. "Consequently, the tribe has been forced to purchase the beef and slaughter it."

The Indians considered charging for the barbecue, but Tribal Chairman Peter MacDonald said: "In the 27-year history of the fair the barbecue has been free and it will remain that way, shortage or not."

contributing the most to the surge of prices in late July and early August were high prices for cattle, hogs, wheat, soybeans, eggs, corn and cotton.

Meanwhile, slight reductions were reported during the period for potatoes, apples and tomatoes, said the report.

The report said the price index received by farmers for all meat animals jumped 24 per cent from mid-July to mid-August and was 68 per cent higher than last year.

And agriculture officials offered little encouragement for the future. They said the August report showed that the skyrocketing trend of food prices, interrupted in July when the price index held steady, has again resumed.

The July halt in price increases has been attributed to the administration's lid on retail and wholesale food prices.

Nixon Carries Fight To Court Of Appeals

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon has decided to carry to the next judicial plateau his legal fight against producing the secret Watergate tape recordings.

The President ordered his lawyers Thursday to appeal to the U.S. Court of Appeals the ruling by U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica directing him to turn over the tapes for the judge's private inspection.

After Sirica's ruling Wednesday in Washington, Nixon announced he would refuse to comply.

Then, after conferring with two White House lawyers he summoned to California, he disclosed Thursday that "appropriate papers for obtaining review are being prepared" and will be filed before next Thursday, when a stay granted by Sirica expires.

The wording of Thursday's announcement indicated that White House lawyers plan first to file a notice of intent to appeal Sirica's order, then follow up later with detailed arguments on why the lower court decision should be overturned.

The normal procedure is for the nine-judge Court of Appeals in Washington to assign cases at random to panels composed of three judges. On occasion, however, the full court hears a case.

The appeals court is one rung below the Supreme Court, where the historic legal battle is eventually expected to land. An appeal is likely no matter what the appeals court rules, but since the Supreme Court is in recess until October it could be late fall before the case is finally decided.

Sirica's ruling was on special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox's subpoena of tape recordings Cox contended could clear up conflicts in testimony of White House aides allegedly involved in the Watergate affair.

The subpoena was issued last month after a former presidential aide told the Senate Watergate committee that Nixon routinely recorded conversations in his oval office and elsewhere.

On behalf of the Watergate grand jury, Cox sought the tapes of eight meetings and one telephone call between Nixon and his advisers at the time, John W. Dean III, H. R. Halde- man and John D. Ehrlichman.

A separate subpoena was issued by the Senate panel. Nixon rejected it, too, and the committee also filed suit to force disclosure.

Nixon's lawyers have argued in fighting the subpoenas that a president's confidential records are privileged from forced disclosure, and that only the President—not the courts—can decide whether such information should be released.

In his ruling, Sirica ordered the President to produce the tapes, saying he would examine them in private and decide whether all or parts of them should be turned over to the grand jury.

Heat Continues To Bring Trouble

By BARTON REPPERT

Associated Press Writer

East Coast and Midwestern cities beset by a sweltering heat wave today face water shortages and continuing electric power problems. The National Weather Service forecasts no relief from the heat until after the Labor Day weekend.

In New York City, officials declared a water emergency as the temperature Thursday hit a year-high 98 degrees for the second time this week. Philadelphia pumped river water into city reservoirs to help offset an upsurge of water consumption.

The New York State Power Pool for a third day reduced voltage by 5 per cent but utilities said voluntary consumer cutbacks had slightly eased the power drain caused by heavy use of air conditioners.

Scattered power failures were reported in Ohio and the Washington metropolitan area, where an air pollution alert continued for the seventh straight day.

The water emergency was declared in New York when water pressure dropped dangerously low in many areas. The city was reported gulping water at a rate of more than 2.1 billion gallons daily, compared with 1.4 billion gallons on a normal summer day.

In Philadelphia, Water Commissioner Carmen F. Guarino said the city was trying to replenish reservoirs being drained at a rate of more than half a billion gallons a day, compared with normal daily usage of 370 million gallons.

District of Columbia officials closed a vehicle inspection station until the air pollution situation improves. The shutdown came after 11 employees at the station became ill because of hot weather combined with fumes from idling automobile engines.

Health officials in New York said the heat wave was partly to blame for an increase in the city's death rate.

Health Commissioner Joseph A. Cimino said 150 people died Sunday, 250 died Monday and 300 died Tuesday. He said a figure of 200 deaths a day was considered normal for the city at this time of year.

Gasoline Price Ceilings Delayed For Week

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gasoline industry officials in Ohio greeted the government's announcement Thursday of a seven day delay in imposing retail gasoline price ceilings with a shrug.

Service station owners would have more time to post ceiling prices and octane ratings, they admitted.

At the same time, they weren't looking forward to the one-to-three-cents per gallon profit loss expected as the result of the new controls.

"It stinks. You might say the whole situation reeks," said Roger Dreyer, of the Ohio Petroleum Marketers Association.

"This sort of thing isn't going to solve any problems. It's an artificial way of controlling prices. Some customers are going to find themselves cut off, because they won't be economically feasible to serve."

Under the price ceiling, gasoline dealers will be allowed a minimum profit margin of seven cents per gallon, and a maximum computed on their profit margin as of Jan. 10, 1973.

Increased costs in foreign products or labor will be allowed to be passed on.

Oren Dewey, executive director of the Central Ohio Gasoline Dealers

Association, said the allowances won't be enough to keep all dealers in business.

The average profit margin of most Ohio dealers in January was 7.3 cents per gallon, he said.

"We were losing 26 stations every month under this minimum. I don't know what this (price ceilings) will do to us," Dewey said.

The delay granted by the President's Cost of Living Council in effect extended current price freezes until Sept. 7. The extension is the third for gasoline prices, originally scheduled to expire Aug. 12.

Spokesman for major oil companies in the state pinned their hopes on a court suit by gasoline dealers scheduled to be heard Sept. 17 before the U.S. Supreme Court.

In the meantime, they seemed resigned to the price controls.

"We are proceeding to make certain our dealers are aware of the requirements under Phase Four," said Jerry Baird, financial manager for Gulf Oil in southern Ohio. "We are advising our dealers to comply with regulations."

Each retailer must post on his gasoline pumps by Sept. 7 special stickers that list the gasoline ceiling price plus the octane rating.

Retailers may obtain the stickers from any one of 33,000 local post offices around the country.

Threats of a shut down among Cincinnati service stations over the Labor Day Weekend appeared weakened Thursday.

The AAA in Cincinnati said a survey of area service stations showed 90 per cent would be open Saturday, 50 per cent Sunday and 30 per cent Monday.

Drivers would have no problems, the travelers' organization said.

There were no reports of other organized closings in Ohio.

Bus Lines, Car Pools Show Gains

WASHINGTON (AP) — Experimental express bus lanes and computerized car pools are showing signs of breaking down the one-man, one-car commuting pattern in some urban areas, government reports show.

The one-man, one-car pattern largely is responsible for the rush hour traffic snarls and air pollution alerts of recent years, the reports say. Such commuting also has placed a substantial drain on the nation's energy resources.

Rather than continue to build bigger roads, the Department of Transportation has been experimenting with ways to reduce the number of cars using existing roads.

Drivers accustomed to bumper-to-bumper traffic, the department reasoned, might leave their car at home if they could be assured of riding a bus that whizzes into town on an exclusive traffic lane.

Or they might be willing to join car pools if all the parking spaces at their company parking lots were reserved for car pool members.

Several demonstration projects tend to show this is correct, the department says.

Bus ridership on Shirley Highway between Washington and its Virginia suburbs has increased 400 per cent since express bus lanes were started in 1969, the Federal Highway Administration says.

Bus patronage on the San Bernardino Freeway in Los Angeles has increased 30 per cent since an express bus lane opened last January.

A car pool program for Washington employees of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration resulted in an average of 3.85 persons per car. The national average is 1.2 persons per car during rush hours. NASA car pool members get preferred parking spaces.

Several companies have started programs of their own, the report show.

The 3M Co., for example, has loaned 12-passenger vans to employees for transporting other employees to and from work. In return, they get a free ride and the use of the van during off hours. Passengers pay enough fare to make the commuter service break even.

McDonnell Douglas Corp. promoted employee car pools in St. Louis, Mo., by giving drivers preferred spaces. The result was an average of 2.8 persons in each car.

Several government agencies are taking a close look at a project conducted by the Highway administration for 600 employees.

A computer matched each employee with eight potential car poolers from his general residential area. The agency says a questionnaire sent out two months later showed the program had been well received.

Government Agrees To Release Money

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration, which has lost almost all of its court fights over impoundment, is not contesting a federal district court suit seeking the release of $59 million in school funds.

Justice Department lawyers appeared at a hearing before Judge George L. Hart Jr., Thursday and promised that the money would be released.

Hart said that unless the government entered a stipulation to that effect by 10 a.m. next Tuesday, he would issue an order restraining the administration from impoundment of the funds. The suit was filed by the states of Washington, Pennsylvania, Texas, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Illinois, Connecticut, Florida, Alabama, Maryland, Nevada.

Joining them in the suit were San Diego, Calif., Fairfax County, Va., and the District of Columbia.

The suit charged that the administration has apportioned or distributed only $576.5 million of the $635.5 million mandated by Congress last year for school districts with substantial expenses resulting from heavy concentrations of federal workers or federal property within their boundaries.

The development freed $5.1 million for Maryland, whose Washington suburbs are heavily populated by federal workers and military personnel, and $2.4 million for Fairfax County, another Washington suburb.

The suit listed these other impoundments: Washington, $1.7 million; Pennsylvania, $1.5 million; North Carolina $1.7 million; Oklahoma, $1.7 million; Illinois, $1.5 million; San Diego, $742,000;

Connecticut, $39,000; Florida, $1.6 million; Alabama, $400,000, and District of Columbia, $810,000.

The suit was the latest development in a continuing controversy over the Nixon administration's impoundment of funds for various programs.

Courts have heard 22 impoundment suits so far this year—and decided all but one against the administration, which contends that it holds final responsibility for expenditure of federal funds.

Expect 28 Ohio Deaths

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Twenty-eight Ohioans will die on the highways over the Labor Day weekend, the state Department of Highway Safety estimated today.

The estimate is four fatalities under the actual traffic toll of the 1972 Labor Day weekend when 32 persons died.

"The real tragedy of the fatality rate is that it is not inevitable," commented Col. Robert M. Chiaramonte, superintendent of the Ohio State Highway Patrol.

"If drivers would heed speed laws and not drive when they drink many lives could be spared."

Chiaramonte issued a plea to Ohio drivers to stay from behind the steering wheel when drinking. "Alcohol usage is a leading cause of accidents," he said.

Submariners Sing To Guide Rescue Craft

CORK, Ireland (AP) — Two submariners trapped a quarter of a mile beneath the Atlantic sang for their lives today and shortly afterward a rescue line was reported attached to their stricken craft.

Bursts of sea shanties from the minibus stuck in mud on the ocean floor helped a sister submarine grope toward it.

Then a British navy survey ship and a trawler on the scene reported a lifeline from its mother ship on the surface had been attached to a ring on the bodywork of the trapped sub.

Vickers Oceanic, owner of the pocket submarine that has been stuck on the ocean bed 150 miles south of Ireland for the past two days, said the navy report was "very encouraging."

But a spokesman added: "We are waiting for this to be confirmed by the Vickers Voyager," the mother ship.

He explained that Vickers headquarters in northern England was having communications difficulties with rescue headquarters.

Reports of the lifeline connection came as the two Britons on board the transatlantic cable-laying sub had less than 24 hours air supply left.

The men, Roger Chapman, 28, and Roger Mallinson, 35, had been stranded at a depth of 1,375 feet since Wednesday and had enough air to last until 4 a.m. EDT Saturday.

Their minibus, the Pisces III, was stuck in the mud at an angle of 70 degrees about 150 miles south of Cork. Manned by two Canadians, the rescue sub Pisces V was going to try to hook a cable to the hull of Pisces III so the disabled craft could be winched up to her mother ship, the Vickers Voyager.

"Voyager knows exactly where both subs are and is relaying instructions from the surface," said Mott, "but they can easily miss one another by a few feet."

The sub weighs 1 1/2 tons in the water but 14 tons outside the water, and when it is pulled to within 50 feet of the surface divers will go down to attach stronger cables. Prospects for this part of the operation looked bad early today because winds of up to 30 miles an hour were whipping up 10-foot waves, and stronger winds were predicted. But by noon the wind had moderated and the seas were calming.

Kompong Cham Shelled By Reds; 20 Persons Die

PHNOM PENH (AP) — Insurgents shelled Kompong Cham, Cambodia's third largest city, and initial field reports today said about 20 persons were killed and 55 wounded.

Sustained fighting was reported on the edges of the city 47 miles northeast of Phnom Penh. It was the biggest rebel assault on the city in two years.

The field reports said virtually all the casualties were military men even though some homes were destroyed when the shells fell off their intended targets.

The Phnom Penh command said 300 mortar shells were fired at government positions in and around the city of 70,000 and at a textile factory six miles to the west.

Indict 13 Steel Firms in Texas

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Federal grand jury indictments accuse 13 steel companies of conspiring to restrain trade in Texas. Company executives declined comment on the allegations.

Included in the indictments made public Thursday are the nation's No. 1 and No. 2 steel producers.

The indictments allege the companies conspired to establish for each a percentage share of the market for reinforcing steel sold in an eight-county Houston area and 11-county Dallas-Fort Worth area.

The government claims the conspiracy affected the prices paid on $28 million in purchases during 1971.

A Justice Department spokesman said the indictments mark the first time antitrust charges have been filed against major steel firms since the mid-1960s in a case involving carbon sheet steel.

Named in the indictment involving the Dallas-Fort Worth area were: U.S. Steel Corp. of Pittsburgh, Pa., the largest producer in the country; Bethlehem Steel Corp. of Bethlehem, Pa., the second largest producer; Armco Steel Corp., the 5th largest.

Border Steel Rolling Mills, Inc., of El Paso, Tex.; The Ceco Corp. of Chicago; Laclede Steel Co. of St. Louis, Mo.; Schindler Brothers Steel of Seale, Tex.; Structural Metals, Inc., of San Antonio; Texas Steel Co. of Fort Worth; and nine executives of those firms.

A second indictment, involving the Houston area, names: Austin Steel Co., Inc., of Dallas; Confederate Steel Corp. of Houston; Peden Industries, Inc., of Reno, Nev.; Whitlow Steel Co., Inc., of Houston; and three executives of those firms.

A separate criminal bill of information filed in Dallas names: Austin Steel Co.; Continental Steel Co. of Garland, Tex.; Huffines Steel Co. of Dallas; The Lofland Co. of Dallas; Textsteel Manufacturing Co. of Dallas; and executives of those firms.

The indictment said activities of the defendants violated federal laws since the majority of steel used in construction in the state is imported from other states and fabricated in Texas.

Penalties for the individuals, if convicted, range up to a year in jail and a $50,000 fine on each count under federal law.

Deer Creek Expansion Discussed

William Nye, director of Ohio Department of Natural Resources, met with area Chambers of Commerce at the Administrative building of the Deer Creek State Park Thursday evening.

Circleville, Washington C. H., Columbus, New Holland, and Mt. Sterling Chambers of Commerce, along with Myrl Shoemaker and Representative of the Army Corps of Engineers met with Nye to discuss development of new facilities at Deer Creek State Park.

State Representative Myrl Shoemaker, Congress William Harsha and Pickaway County Commissioners are working towards this project along with the support of the Columbus Chamber of Commerce.

One of the main questions brought to the attention of those present was, "How to maintain quality business establishments?" One answer to that was by good planning and zoning. Planning had been speeded up citing a need for additional recreational facilities in the state, and that feasibility studies are being conducted for additional park areas in the northern half of the state, according to Nye.

Deer Creek State Park had in 1972, 1.6 million visitors and 1.8 million from January to July of 1973. Salt Fork, the largest state park, had 1.6 million visitors in 1972 and two million the first half of 1973.

Strikers And Telephone Co. Reach Accord

General Telephone Co. officials and members of the Communications Workers of America reached an informal decision today regarding picketing and other actions during the duration of the strike.

No finding was made on past conduct of the strikers, except to confirm the mass picketing on Aug. 21 by members of the union.

The two groups agreed that a maximum of two pickets would be permitted at each of the five accesses at the main telephone company building downtown and a total of three allowed at the building located on Route 22-east.

Strikers agreed not to interfere in the future with customers or employees and to refrain from mass picketing.

Sow Lawsuit Continuing

A lawsuit over sterile sows went into its second day Friday in Common Pleas Court.

Route 3 farmer Thomas Boyer is seeking monetary damages for losses he claims he suffered as a result of the negligence of employees of Pickaway Grain. Boyer alleges the grain company allowed some pellets of diethylstilbestrol (DES) to mix with the sow feed which caused 40 sows and 31 gilts to become sterile.

Pickaway Grain claims Boyer's improper use of the feed was the cause of sterility in the animals.

Boyer is asking the court to award him over $39,000 to compensate for his lost profits, plus $2,500 decrease in value for the 71 animals and $1,850 for his expenses connected with extraordinary attempts to breed the sows and gilts.

How it is possible for the International Commission of Control and Supervision in Vietnam to do so little policing of the truce and go in debt $10 million doing it is a good question. But that is the situation the ICCS has produced.

The funding of the ICCS operation was outlined in the Paris accords, but there are loopholes. Each of the four parties — the United States, South Vietnam, North Vietnam and the Viet Cong — are to share equally 92 per cent of the costs, with the four ICCS members each picking up 2 per cent of the tab.

But the ICCS has not formally approved its budget, which means the four parties are obligated only to contribute an initial million dollars. The U.S. and South Vietnam each gave another million dollars and North Vietnam contributed an additional $350,000.

The budget for one year, however, was established at an incredible $4 million. Spending at that pace has exhausted funds and accumulated $10 million in unpaid bills. As a result, much of the contracted assistance is in danger of coming to a halt.

With Canada withdrawn from the ICCS and Poland in charge of the finance committee, the likelihood of an early settlement of either the funding question or the basic function of the commission has dropped to a new low.

How Much Heroin?

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

The U.S. Bureau of Narcotics denies there are any hard facts available about the alleged drug trade traffic out of Red China. The World Anti-Communist League begs to differ with the Bureau of Narcotics. Some of the League's findings, "based," as it claims, "on an extensive survey of concrete facts and statistical data," have been printed in the Asian Outlook for June, 1973. The figures, as set forth in one-two-three order, are horrendous; they point to a situation which, if true, could easily be verified by photography from a sky-lab.

But the Nixon Administration, pursuing its policy of detente with Red China, has no desire to stir up the animals. Bob Price, a Texas member of the House of Representatives who has been digging for hard information about illicit drug running from the Chinese mainland, can get nothing from the government by way of a checkup on the incredible number of "mou" (a mou is a fifteenth of a hectare) that have allegedly been sown to poppies in Mao's happy realm.

Journalists can't commandeer sky-labs nor can they gain permission to roam freely in the Red Chinese countryside. So they have to rely on smuggled evidence. The afternoon Star of Hong Kong prints stories of dope smuggling from the Chinese mainland which are based on police reports that could hardly be fabricated. The stuff must come from somewhere, and it is hardly likely that opium would be smuggled into Red China only to be shipped out again. So, the proof of the pudding being in the eating, some poppy planting must be part of Mao Tse-tung's agricultural plan.

The World Anti-Communist League-Asian Outlook information has it that the sown poppy acreage of the Maoist State farms and people's communes reached 9,000,000 mon in 1972. In the Yunnan-Kwangsi-Kweichow area the sown poppy areas come to 2,000,000 mou. In central China, 1.7 million mou have been planted, followed by 700,000 mou in East China, 400,000 in northeast China, 300,000 in Kwangtung, 250,000 in northwest China, 100,000 in north China, 50,000 in Sinkiang and Tibet and 30,000 in Szechuan. Four million mou have been sown on land directly under the government, on army reclamation farms, labor reform farms, experimental farms and other state-operated units.

While the West struggles to perfect the "green revolution" strains of wheat and rice, Red Chinese institutes have allegedly been set up to improve the opium poppy and the quality of its processed products. The figures given for such institutes are specific — a total of 72, with 47 listed as "general" plants and 25 as "sub-plants." The annual export of narcotics from these plants is set at 10,000 tons, with net profits of $800 million in U.S. dollars being poured into Mao's treasury.

Sinkiang opium, according to the accounts, is moved into the free world via Pakistan and Afghanistan. The "export line" from Tibet goes through Nepal and India. West China drugs move from Kunming into the "golden triangle" region of Burma-Thailand-Laos, where they could be disguised by mixing with the native Indochinese opium and heroin. Hong Kong is the port of transit for South and East Chinese dope; it is this traffic that is studied periodically in the Hong Kong press.

The ways of moving the illicit stuff are most ingenious. Narcotics can be mixed with flour or refined sugar, or concealed in cakes of soap or toothpaste tubes. Cotton fabrics have been soaked in morphine liquid and shipped in dried-out condition.

Those who claim to have seen them list the trademarks used by the Chinese Communists for their narcotics. They are Gold Elephant, Silver Pot, Racing Dog, Black Chicken, Gold Deer, White Dragon Pearl and so on. A trademark doesn't constitute proof of anything unless it is seized at the point of transmission. If such seizures have occurred, the editors of Asian Outlook would be doing their readers a favor by reproducing pictures of the packaged drugs.

To return to Congressman Price's difficulties with the Bureau of Narcotics: surely our satellites have taken detailed pictures of the Red Chinese terrain. The lowliest blade of grass can be photographed from miles above the earth, and the claims of millions of mou in poppy planting could easily be established or disproved by reference to evidence that must be in the Pengaton's files.

Bob Price is on the House of Representatives Armed Services Committee. Couldn't he arrange for a secret showing of satellite film? He would then be in a position to tell his constituents who is right, the Bureau of Narcotics or the World Anti-Communist League.

According To Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

SUN CITY CENTER, Fla. (AP) — All it takes to make a million dollars is one good idea.

Smith Johnson, now 79, had that idea 53 years ago. He invented the modern steel paint pail.

In 1920, he and his father operated a small, struggling factory that made pails out of wooden staves. They couldn't be stacked on top of each other, and this made shipping costs prohibitive.

"I knew a better way had to be found," recalled Johnson. "And one snowy night I set out to do it."

By morning he had sketched out the answer — the steel paint pail that has become standard in the industry in the years since then.

"I knew I had a winner right at the start," Johnson said. He was right. Within two years, he was manufacturing 5,000 pails a day; and within five years, they had earned him over $300,000.

Johnson figures his invention has netted him well over a million dollars, a figure that might have been multiplied several times if he had been able to collect royalties on all the 80 million pails, based on his invention, that have been marketed throughout the world.

This lost revenue doesn't disturb him.

"The world would die if I had to do the bookkeeping for it," he said cheerfully.

A restless man with many interests, Johnson entered the rubber products field after his paint pail won success and patented 16 more inventions.

He still is active as vice president of a rubber company in Pauling, N.Y., and takes pride in being able to call each of its 245 employees by his first name.

"And they all call me Smith in return," he said. He is proud of the reputation he holds for maintaining good employee relations.

Johnson has no formula for how one can go about getting a million-dollar idea and is wryly critical of his own performance lately.

"I haven't patented anything new for 25 years," he complained mildly. "I guess I'm stuck on some kind of plateau. But I still like to keep putting around. Work keeps your blood circulating."

Today In History

Today is Friday, Aug. 31, the 243rd day of 1973. There are 122 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1290, Jews were exiled from England by a proclamation of King Edward I.

On this date—

In 1654, the Rhode Island General Assembly banned the sale of liquor to Indians.

In 1914, German forces defeated the Russians in the World War I battle of Tannenberg in Poland.

In 1935, President Franklin D. Roosevelt signed a neutrality act prohibiting the export of U.S. arms to belligerents.

In 1940, the British air force struck the center of Berlin for the first time in World War II.

In 1954, scores of persons were killed as Hurricane Carol battered the northeastern United States.

In 1971, President Nixon invoked executive privilege and refused to tell the Senate about long-range plans for U.S. foreign military assistance.

Ten years ago: It was announced that the first manned flight in the U.S. Apollo moon program had fallen nearly one year behind schedule because of technical and managerial problems.

Five years ago: The United States charged that the Soviet Union had upset the long-standing military balance of power in central Europe by massing hundreds of thousands of troops against Czechoslovakia.

One year ago: American jets destroyed a large ammunition depot and other military installations in North Vietnam's southern panhandle.

Today's birthdays: Broadcaster Arthur Godfrey is 70. Comedian Buddy Hackett is 49.

Thought for today: There is only one success — to be able to spend your life in your own way — Christopher Morley, American writer, 1890-1957.

Kissinger Trip To Europe Nixed

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger has canceled plans for a trip to Europe in September.

A White House spokesman said Tuesday that Kissinger had withdrawn his acceptance of an invitation to address the Atlantic Treaty Organization in Brussels on Sept. 10 because of "demands on his time."

President Nixon announced last week that he was nominating Kissinger to succeed retiring Secretary of State William P. Rogers. Kissinger has been Nixon's national security adviser.

FBI Recovers Stolen Securities

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The FBI says agents have recovered $1 million worth of securities that had been stolen in New York City.

Frederick C. Fehl, agent in charge of the Cleveland FBI office, said Wednesday the municipal bonds were part of the loot taken from a New York brokerage house last week.

Fehl said agents acted on information received from a financial institution. He said the investigation was continuing and declined to release any other information.

Dependent Children Aid Declines Again

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Welfare Director Charles W. Bates announced today that the Aid to Dependent Children rolls decreased for the fourth straight month in July.

Bates said the decrease of 1,018 recipients in July was smaller than the decreases recorded for the previous three months. However, he noted that this marks the first four-month decrease for the department in eight years.

Bates said the decrease occurred entirely in the ADC-U, unemployed fathers category. He said the recipients left the rolls to return to work.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

My son had infectious mononucleosis six weeks ago. He says that he feels "weak as a fly" all the time.

Could this be a sign that he is developing a complication?

Mrs. J.L., Calif

Dear Mrs. L.:

Persistent weakness and a sense of fatigue are rather typical of mononucleosis. For this very reason rest is considered the most vital "drug" generally prescribed for this condition.

A special heterophile blood test distinguishes infectious mononucleosis from the ordinary cold with sore throat and swollen glands.

This heterophile test is taken at repeated intervals and is used by the doctor as an indication of how well the body is handling this infectious condition.

The heterophile test sometimes stays positive for many months after the patient is well enough to return to complete activity.

Fatigue becomes a good guide, for the doctor and for the patient, of the need for continued rest.

Mononucleosis has a tendency to drag on and on. To return to full activity prematurely can delay your son's eventual total recovery.

If ever patience is a virtue, it is with people who are slowly recovering from this condition. It can truly be said that "mono" is monotonous.

High vitamin supplements, nutritious foods, avoidance of physical exertion, and plenty of rest should speed your son's total recovery.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The task of managing a corporation whose primary goal is to make a good product and sell it at a reasonable profit is infinitely less complicated than running an entire nation of multiple interests and values.

And when that country is the United States, where the great variety of goals often conflict with each other, rather than Japan, where ambitions of government and business are sometimes mutual, the contrast is glaring.

It is this sense of disorder that today makes American businessmen furious and frustrated and provokes them into charges of mismanagement in Washington.

"Running the country is no different than running a business," they say. "It's all a matter of management, and management is little more than obtaining optimum results, whether in business or government."

Maybe so. But you decide whether the difference is simply one of degree or whether managing a country of diverse interests is an entirely different matter than running a company of unified goals.

The proposition is that there is an energy shortage and that the logical solution is to reduce consumption or expand production. But, the critics argue, we are making precisely the opposite moves.

A price ceiling on natural gas has discouraged exploration and increased usage. Coal with sulfur content has been banned, sharply restricting supply. New safety rules have cut output. Strip mining has been restricted.

Atomic power has been delayed by uncertainty about licensing requirements. Security restrictions have ruled out some sites. Environmental suits have added to the delay.

With natural gas, coal and atomic power all restricted, there remains petroleum as a source of energy. But, the critics say, the scenario being acted out assures a shortage here also.

First, automotive consumption of gasoline is grossly increased by drastic reductions in engine efficiency because of antipollution requirements.

My husband objects to the fact that our daughter wants to become a nurse. He thinks the profession of nursing is not so glamorous as it seems.

She is heartbroken about this. It is causing many difficult and conflicting problems in our home.

Perhaps you can be a deciding factor for us.

Mrs. E.A., Mich

Dear Mrs. A.:

It would seem that I am assuming a great responsibility in accepting your invitation to help solve such a family problem.

As a matter of fact, I do so with great pleasure because I am so convinced that there are few more gratifying and more rewarding professions than that of nursing.

So gratifying, in fact, is the structure of the nursing profession that all over America nurses, and other para-professional personnel are being enlisted as part of the health team.

And therein lie the dignity, the pride, and the accomplishment of the modern nurse.

During the last 50 years, the horizons of nursing have broadened to the point where it now can truly be considered as one of the most vital forces in the total recovery of hospital patients.

The psychological understanding, the gentleness, the knowledgeability and the vast exposure to all branches of medicine makes the nurse a vital ingredient in every phase of medicine. Your daughter's accomplishment will be most rewarding to her. You and your husband will have reason for pride as she attains her goal.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Searing heat during the day and a thunderstorm at night reduced the number of visitors to the Ohio State Fair Thursday.

A fair spokesman said 128,275 persons visited the exposition Thursday, compared to 152,142 on the same day last year.

Temperatures during the day soared into the 90s amid humid conditions. In the evening, the fairgrounds was swept by strong wind and rain that forced visitors to take cover.

Despite the lower attendance Thursday, the number of visitors is running 25 per cent ahead of last year.

Woman Wins Right To Be Minister

PEARL RIVER, N.Y. (AP) — "Christ was a radical. He spoke to women. He associated with the oppressed, the underdogs of society," Joyce Stedje declares.

Such sentiments aren't normally associated with the old and sedate Reformed Church in America, which traces its origins in this country to 1628.

But Mrs. Stedje, 47, a mother of six whose soft voice and gentle manner belie firm Christian convictions, has succeeded in getting the Church to discard one of its oldest traditions. She is the first woman in the history of the 220,000-member Church to be granted a license to preach.

She took the initial step last January when she went before the district governing body of the Church for examination on her license to preach and ordination as a minister, subject to her receiving a "call" from a congregation.

But first the group of about 50 men pondered an article in the Book of Church Order which begins: "The ministers of the Word are those persons who ..."

They decided unanimously that "persons" meant women as well as men. Mrs. Stedje was pleased by the ruling, but thought it would have been "pretty presumptuous to limit God" in His choice of who will serve the Church.

She has already preached and conducted Sunday services at three Reformed churches in New York and

Woman Dies

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)— Brenda Gundler of Collinsville died early today following a one-car accident on Central Avenue, police said.

She was dead on arrival at Mercy Hospital, police said, after her car struck a tree.

New Jersey whose congregations were "very friendly and very open" toward a woman in the pulpit.

But she dislikes the connotations of "preacher."

"I'm happiest in a dialogue situation ... where the congregation is not sitting passively and being talked down to," she says.

Final approval of her license to preach came at the Church's General Synod in Pella, Iowa, in June. After a 1½-hour debate, a key motion to consider her case separately from that of eight men was defeated by a margin of more than 2 to 1.

One woman told Mrs. Stedje, "I'm all for you being ordained, but I personally wouldn't want a woman minister."

But the former grade school teacher who earned a masters degree in divinity from Union Theological Seminary is not yet a minister. Under Reformed Church rules, an applicant is not ordained until after he receives a call from a church. And each congregation is free to choose its own pastor.

"So if a church doesn't want a woman, she's not going to be ordained," says Mrs. Stedje.

Gilligan Gets New Plane

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. John J. Gilligan has a new, six-passenger airplane aides say will fly higher and faster than his old DC-3.

The governor's office said the King Air 90-C was purchased, on bid, from the Beech Aircraft Corp. for $529,766.

The turboprop aircraft, with a pressurized cabin, cruises at 275 miles an hour, about 100 miles an hour faster than the old plane.

The Ohio Department of Transportation bought the plane for $469,256 earlier this summer, threw in a 17-year-old Aero Commander worth $60,510 as a trade-in, and took delivery this month.

The department then assigned the plane to Gilligan.

Judge Nixes Trial Plea

NEW YORK (AP)—A federal judge has rejected defense contentions that massive publicity over W. J. G. Stans would preclude a fair trial for former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and ex-Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans.

U.S. District Court Judge Lee P. Gagliardi on Wednesday ordered that the trial begin Sept. 11 as previously scheduled.

Gagliardi said the only way to determine whether a fair trial is possible would be to impanel prospective jurors and question them under oath about the effects of pretrial publicity.

Mitchell and Stans have been charged with conspiracy, obstruction of justice and perjury.

The prosecution accuses the two former Cabinet members of seeking to impede a Securities and Exchange Commission investigation of financier Robert L. Vesco in return for a secret $200,000 cash contribution to President Nixon's 1972 re-election campaign.

Woman Receives Meaty Reward

OGDEN, Utah (AP)—When Mrs. LaVie Bair noticed cars swerving to miss a large box on 24th Street, she decided to go pick it up.

The box was filled with two dozen top sirloin steaks—a stronger than normal test of honesty in these days of meat shortages.

Justice was meted out, however, when she called a local meat firm whose name was on the box.

Her reward for return of the missing steaks was a roast and package of patty meat.

"I keep telling myself that we really don't like steaks anyway," Mrs. Bair said Wednesday.

Economical Note: render pieces of fat removed from chicken and turkey when you are cleaning the birds and use the rendered fat for frying. Keep the fat in a tightly covered jar in the refrigerator. You can save the pieces of fat, appropriately covered, in the freezer and render them all at one time.

On Books And Activities At The Library

Labor Day Weekend is coming up. The frequent reporting of the climbing highway fatality statistics seems to have become a grim tradition of holiday week-end TV. One way to avert becoming one of these weekend statistics yourself is to stock up with some good books, and spend a quiet week-end at home reading. You might begin with Alistair MacLean's book, "Way to Dusty Death." An undercover agent posing as a Grand Prix driver tries to find out who is fixing the Grand Prix races and how a dope ring is involved with the Grand Prix racing circuit. The action moves from Switzerland to France.

Perhaps tomahawk attacks and treasure hunts might provide a more satisfying vicarious adventure. The popular historical writer, F. Van Wyck Mason has written a new novel, "Log Cabin Noble." The setting is Maine and Massachusetts in the 17th century. Two friends lose their stake in Maine because of Indians. They migrate to Boston where they start a shipyard and eventually recover a stolen treasure.

When the week-end statistics are no longer cold figures, but include someone you know or love, do you wail, "Why did it happen to me? Or her? Or him? Or them?" Are you distressed at seemingly senseless suffering? Does God seem unfair? Is there any meaning or purpose to life? In "Job: A New Translation with Introduction and Commentary by Marvin H. Pope" a man of another era wrestles with these same questions. Perhaps you have heard of the "patience of Job"? You might be surprised to learn Job was not so patient. He railed and argued against God and divine justice almost to the point of blasphemy. This book of the Bible not only confronts the disturbing questions of divine justice and life's meaning, but is considered one of the great works of world literature.

Job was a "known complainer" according to Mama. Her son says of her, "My mother did everything in her power to answer most of her prayers herself; but she derived determination and an optimistic energy and aliveness from the sureness that whatever she was after could be had if only, and at last, with the help of God; and because she knew God was there. Who needed to speak about Job's plagues? A man speaks to God and God speaks back and he still wants to talk about his migraine headaches?"

Who is Mama? Mama was the mother of William Peter Blatty, author of "The Exorcist." You can read about her in her son's biography, "I'll Tell Them I Remember You." In this book, Blatty reveals his thoughts about the "The Exorcist", his mother, and life after death.

Too hot to read? Then take time out to enjoy some music — your favorite kind or something unfamiliar — cool classical or hot jazz. For a venture into the unfamiliar try "Everything You Always Wanted to Hear on the Mogg (but were afraid to ask for)." "Mogg" for those who don't know is pronounced to rhyme with "rouge." The Moog synthesizer is a real musical instrument, not a computer as many suppose. It is electronic, has a piano-like keyboard, and must be played by a musician. The Moog used to record this album plays only one or two notes simultaneously. Each melodic or harmonic line of the original score had to be played individually — as many as twenty overlaps per tape!

If you read the book, you might like to hear Kurt Vonnegut Jr. reading "Slaughterhouse-Five." Or if you saw the movie, you might prefer the music from the sound track, a Columbia recording featuring Glenn Gould's performances. Other sound track recordings are from "The Last Picture Show" and "1776." Perhaps musical comedy like "Annie Get Your Gun" or "West Side Story" might suit your mood. Or some romantic waltzes or country-western.

If you prefer the spoken word, try "Thoreau's World" read by Archibald MacLeish, or Yevtushenko's readings from his New York and San Francisco Poetry concerts.

Well, if you don't want to do anything, check out one of our art prints. You can spend a whole week-end looking at and finding something new — Farm at Charbon Sur Lac" by Chagall; "Mediterranean Scene" by Dufy; "Bridge at Trinquetaille" or "Boats at Saintes Maries" by Van Gough, or "Fox Island" by Hartley. If you have your own 16 mm sound projector, we might have some movies available that you would like.

If you don't follow any of our suggestions, and insist on taking to the crowded highways, do be careful. If you do follow our suggestions, be sure to get your books, magazines, records, paintings or films before 5 p.m. Saturday. We will be closed Labor Day. Catching up on our reading.

Ted Brown Already Running Hard

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Secretary of State Ted W. Brown seems to be running hard for re-election next year. Some of his long-time friends think he may be running too hard.

"I think he's letting the criticism from Gov. (John J.) Gilligan get to him," said one. "He's over-reacting. That's not like Ted."

Gilligan has left little doubt that Democrats will be shooting for the veteran secretary in the election next year. He launched the criticism after the Cuyahoga County election snafu in 1970.

Brown's office has been defending itself since. Brown has been putting out news releases at an even greater pace.

Democrats contend Brown is of the old school—the professional politician that Gilligan believes the state can do without. He suggested Brown be retired after 23 years in the job.

Brown may have given ammunition to his detractors with a news release he put out a couple of weeks ago.

"The time has come to change the law and go back to the kind of simplified ballot language used earlier in the century," Brown said.

Although he may have had some sound reasoning for his position Democrats are expected to use that statement to support their arguments that Brown belongs to another, less complex era.

Dr. Bennett J. Cooper, director of the Department of Correction and Rehabilitation, has gotten some bipartisan support for his operation of the troubled Ohio penal system.

One of the first to come to his aid after two guards were killed at the new Southern Ohio Correctional Facility at Lucasville was Sen. Donald E. "Buz" Lukens, R-4 Middletown.

Lukens noted that the overall prison population was down, underscoring what he said was the success of Cooper's rehabilitation program.

Sen. M. Morris Jackson, D-21 Cleveland, said many of the achievements in the penal system has been the brainchild of Cooper. He cited a manpower development and training program as an example.

Cooper was appointed to the top job by former Gov. James A. Rhodes and kept in the position by Gov. John J. Gilligan.

Man 'Talks' With Ape

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — Gary Shapiro crawls into a cage at Roeding Park Zoo here every weekday morning and trades fruit slices for plastic letters with an orangutan.

Shapiro, 22, a graduate student at Fresno State University, "talks" with the 5-year-old female ape.

Azak has learned, perhaps by rote, perhaps by association, that the different shaped plastic pieces handed her mean food if she can get them in a certain order.

She has learned that the plastic letter, "Q" means she gets something from Shapiro. The letter "T" means he takes something from her.

"It is the relationship between a symbol and an object," Shapiro explained.

"It may just be that by working with an orangutan, some method of teaching a mentally retarded child may evolve," Shapiro said.

How did we ever get into the habit of looking backwards? By-product of some shoddy mathematics, no doubt. If the day you are born is your birthday—then it's undoubtedly your first birthday. And when you are a year old you should celebrate your second birthday, and begin your second year.

Of course, we are not seriously advocating that everybody add one to his next birthday. That would be too confusing for certain friends of ours who are 39 and holding!

But you will agree, won't you, that on birthdays we ought to be looking ahead? The only year we can do anything about is the one we're about to live. Opportunities do a great deal more for human character than memories, no matter how fond the memories.

The churches with their tremendous resources for spiritual training and growth always celebrate our children's birthdays by looking ahead.

110th Ohio General Assembly 'Productive'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — It was called a lot of things, but what the 110th General Assembly calls itself is productive. Leaders in both parties generally agree.

With the 1973 session out of the way, members looked back on the General Assembly as one that "faced the issues head-on," as Senate Majority Leader

Theodore M. Gray, R-3 Columbus, put it.

Gray's observation appeared to be well-founded.

The General Assembly moved into areas where others broached but never ended.

It approved Sunday sales, Sunday others that the session was productive but said he thought it was too partisan, at least in the House.

"The practice on the other side seems to be that regardless of the issue, if a Democrat takes one side, 'We follow it,' " Kurfess said.

"On our side," said Kurfess "it was hard to fend off the automatic reaction that resulted. That's not good for the public. We sometimes lose sight of the issue in partisan fighting.

Speaker Pro Tem Vernal Riffe Jr., D-89 Boston, said it was a session in which for the first time he could remember the legislature, in great part, directed the course of government.

"The legislature had more input than anybody else," he said. He credited it to the leadership of his boss, House Speaker A. G. Lancione, D-99 Bellaire.

Riffe agreed with Kurfess that the General Assembly helped change some of the priorities of the Gilligan administration.

Egypt, Libya Reach Accord On Plan To Merge Countries

CAIRO (AP) — Arab unity advanced another small step Wednesday night with the announcement that Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Libyan strongman Moammar Khadafy had agreed on the procedure by which their two countries would merge.

The agreement was a victory for Sadat, who had insisted on a cautious, one-step-at-a-time approach to unification instead of completion of the merger by Sept. 1, as Khadafy wanted.

The two leaders agreed that the first step would be the creation on Saturday of a 100-member constituent assembly to draft a constitution for the still unnamed new state. The assembly will include 50 members of Egypt's Parliament and 50 members of the Libyan Popular Revolutionary Committee.

After the constitution is completed, it will be submitted to the people of both countries at a referendum. But no timetable was specified for completion of the constitution or proclamation of the union.

The agreement specified that Sadat and Khadafy will remain in power in their respective countries until the merger is completed. The constituent assembly is to nominate a president for the new nation, and Khadafy has said he will step aside in favor of Sadat.

The convening of the constitutional assembly on Saturday was viewed as a face-saving device for Khadafy. He had wanted the merger to be accomplished on that day because it is the fourth anniversary of his revolution that overthrew the Libyan monarchy, and the agreement gives him something to put before his people as an anniversary present.

The two leaders also invited other Arab countries to join their union and agreed to create a new common currency called the Arab dinar to replace the Egyptian pound and the Libyan dinar. No date was set for putting it into use, however.

Sadat and the Egyptian people have long been cool to the idea of speedy union because of Khadafy's insistence in Libya on strict adherence to Islamic law. Nearly a fifth of Egypt's citizens are Christians of the Coptic sect and since 1952 Egypt officially has been a nonsectarian socialist state.

Egypt is attracted to the merger, however, by Libya's rich oil reserves. Libya has only 2 million people to benefit from the oil wealth, while Egypt, with a population of 35 million, has long been mired down in poverty stemming from unchecked population growth, a massive armament program and a lack of natural resources.

Uneasy Truce Seen In China Among Ruling Party Leaders

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Durable Chou En-lai may have worked out some ingenious form of peaceful coexistence between potentially contending forces in China as the nation heads uncertainly toward the period of transition that will follow Mao Tse-tung's departure from the stage. But Chou may have achieved only a truce, rather than a real peace.

Announced results of the 10th Chinese Communist party congress suggest a compromise in a struggle between two lines. Possibly, Chou hopes the new lineup will provide time to work out a succession from the Mao era to one of collective leadership.

Mao will be 80 in December. Chou is 75. The leadership is still a collection of superannuated veterans of the turbulent old days. If there are young men capable of taking over, they do not appear to have come forward at this congress any more than at the last one in 1969. Yet this is going to be one of the most important problems facing China in the transition period that must come soon.

The 9th Congress four years ago adopted a party constitution specifically naming Defense Minister Lin Piao as Mao's successor. In 1971, Lin met an untimely end. He had been involved in a savage struggle over policy and lost.

One aspect of the struggle involved tactics. Lin evidently disagreed with Chou's invitation to President Nixon to visit China, feeling it would damage the world revolutionary cause. Lin did not disagree with hostility to the Soviet Union, however.

In fact, there probably was no difficulty at the 10th congress adopting a call to oppose "the hegemonism of the two superpowers"—the United States and the Soviet Union.

Rather, the difficulty has been in a clash between the radical revolutionaries and hard-headed pragmatists on what course the revolution should take. The radicals still seem to have muscle.

The party now has a new fullstrength central committee. Probably repairs have been made in party and government structures to bridge the yawning gaps left by the violent purge that followed Lin Piao's fall. A new defense minister may soon be named, possibly Yeh Chien-ying, an elder military leader and ally of Chou.

All this seems to smack of compromise. It also suggests that Chou has had to seek cooperation from the military, and the army men in turn are likely to have considerable influence on what directions China will take.

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY

Ohio got welcome relief from days of hot, humid weather Thursday night in scattered thundershowers and thunderstorms in many areas of the state. Temperatures at most reporting points dipped into the 60s during the night and at daybreak readings ranged from 71 at Mansfield to 62 at Toledo.

The center of the high pressure area Friday morning had drifted eastward to the Carolina coast. A broad area from the Atlantic seaboard westward to the plains states is characterized by a southerly wind flow and warm humid air. Seasonably cool air is confined to the northwestern states.

Temperatures are expected to climb well into the 80s over the state in the afternoon under partly cloudy skies, with parts of southern Ohio topping the 90-degree mark.

Scattered thunderstorms will probably develop again mostly likely during the late afternoon and evening hours.

No large change in the overall weather picture is likely through the holiday weekend.

There were about 130,000 Indians living in the California region of the United States when it was discovered by the Spanish in 1542.

Grid Coach Speaks To Rotarians

COACH LARRY COOK

Circleville football coach Larry Cook and his brother John were special guests of Rotary Thursday where Larry was speaker.

Coach Cook, starting his second year with the Tiger gridgers, reviewed the success of several recent CHS graduates. He named Tom Frericks, who will play football at Notre Dame; Dave Truex, going to Ohio University as an offensive back; and Gary Mogan, entering Defiance College as a linebacker.

The same coaching staff that was so successful in making CHS the SCOL champs last year are working hard toward the same goal this year, Cook reported. Forty-three varsity players are now in practice to prepare for the Sept. 7 opening game with Grove City.

Cook said he is proud of the fact that Circleville has had an increase of 10 new players. He attributes this to the desire of young men in our permissive society to seek out a disciplined, regulated sport in football.

Though the 1973-74 team is not too large, Cook expects determination and team unity to see the Tigers through to the top of the league.

He prophesized that Washington C.H., with its returning veterans and large size, would be a threat to Circleville and that Wilmington could be a dark horse full of surprises.

At the close of his speech, the coach gave a brief rundown of the players and their positions and told how some of their performances had been so far in practice.

Judge Bars Rock Concert

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—A rock concert set today in suburban Parma was enjoined by a Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court judge after city officials said the gathering would cause havoc.

Judge Adrian Fink ordered Reinhold Fiegland, owner of the Pleasant Valley Lake recreation area, to drop his plans to sponsor two local groups in a concert designed to attract up to 3,000 youths.

City officials testified at a morning-long hearing Thursday that sanitation facilities at the area were inadequate, that the streets would not be able to handle the traffic flow and that property damage would be inevitable.

Fink's decision was handed down about four hours later.

Fiegland's attorneys had contended the city's fears were unfounded and that Fiegland would recruit about 25 off-duty policemen to handle security chores.

Noting the heavily ethnic makeup of the suburb, one of the attorneys told Fink: "They wouldn't object if we were holding a polka concert there."

Richardson In Political Dilemma

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration's white knight, Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson, has splashed into quicksand that threatens to overshadow the ambitious goals he has set for himself and the Justice Department.

Auto Talks Without Sign Of Progress

DETROIT (AP) — Progress or a strike in 15 days is the choice confronting Chrysler Corp. in its contract negotiations with the United Auto Workers.

The strike warning was sparked Thursday by a Chrysler executive's comment that "at this point, I know of no accommodation that could be made" on the UAW's demand that overtime be made voluntary.

UAW President Leonard Woodcock replied to the remark by William Bavinger, Chrysler's director of industrial relations, saying "there's no alternative" to a strike Sept. 14 unless the issue of voluntary overtime is resolved.

"We won't strike on that single issue," Woodcock said. But he added that lack of progress on that key union demand "casts a chill on all the other areas."

Today's bargaining session focused on the costs of union pension improvement demands.

Woodcock said his original optimism that agreement can be reached without a strike at Chrysler before contracts expire Sept. 14 is dimming. "I was optimistic," he said. "Now, I'm down to hopeful."

Later, Woodcock said the next downward turn in his mood will make him "belligerent."

He said voluntary overtime is "the biggest obstacle to our forward progress at the moment" in negotiations with Chrysler, the UAW's target in seeking new contracts for nearly 700,000 workers at Chrysler, Ford and General Motors.

Columbus Girls Reported Dead In Farm Mishap

DELHI, Ont. (AP) — A Columbus, Ohio, man traveled to this community Thursday to make positive identification of his two daughters who died when their tractor overturned on a county road near here.

John Hardie told Norfolk county police the victims were his daughters, Christine, 21, and Allyson, 18.

They were doing farm work in the area, police said.

John Badur, a local farmer, reported the two women missing on Tuesday. They were found Wednesday beside an overturned tractor.

Police said identifying the victims was difficult, because the women had used different names.

Man Gives Self Up In Woman's Slaying

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— Police were holding a man who turned himself in after a 37-year-old Oakley woman was shot to death at her home Thursday.

In custody was Ben Dukes, 37, of Walnut Hills. The victim was identified by police as Mrs. Thelma Tribble.

Witnesses told police a man jumped out of a car, ran into the house and returned to the car after a shot was fired.

Police said Dukes, after turning himself in, attempted to leap from a sixth story window at police headquarters. He was restrained by police officers.

Richardson soon must decide whether to press ahead with extortion and bribery allegations against Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, a fellow Republican.

He must decide — and instruct the U.S. attorney in Baltimore — whether any evidence concerning Agnew that might be developed informally by the prosecutor and his assistants warrants presentation under oath to a special federal grand jury investigating political kickbacks in Maryland.

Richardson says the decision will be his alone.

And no matter what the decision is, it seems virtually certain to draw criticism and cost Richardson some of the support he needs to restore the public image and internal morale of the Justice Department.

There are almost certain to be cries of "cover-up" if Richardson decides the allegations should be withheld from the grand jury or possibly the House of Representatives where impeachment proceedings originate.

And from other quarters will arise cries of "persecution" if he chooses to pursue the accusations Agnew denounces as "damned lies."

The issue tests Richardson's oft-stated vow to depoliticize the Justice Department in appearance as well as substance.

The department was severely criticized for its original investigation of the Watergate burglary after disclosures this spring verified news reports that the scandal reached far beyond the seven men implicated in that investigation.

As allegations mounted that the scandal reached high into the White House, perhaps to President Nixon himself, the renewed investigation was taken away from the department and given to a special prosecutor.

President Nixon's first attorney general, John N. Mitchell is under indictment on charges of conspiracy, perjury and obstruction of justice and is under investigation for other alleged crimes. His successor, Richard G. Kleindienst, resigned because so many of his associates were implicated in the Watergate matter.

The department also was jolted by charges that it settled a series of antitrust actions against International Telephone & Telegraph out of court in 1971 because of ITT contributions to the Republican party.

In that disease-ridden climate, Nixon turned to Elliot Lee Richardson, the proper Bostonian untainted by corruption after 20 years in politics, to rescue the department.

Time and time again, Richardson has told audiences and interviewers since he took command three months ago that his primary mission is to restore public confidence in the department by proving that it is administered without political considerations.

49th Fatality Recorded

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—A 27-year-old Collinsville, Ohio woman became Hamilton County's 49th traffic fatality Thursday when the car she was driving collided with a utility pole.

The victim was identified as Mrs. Brenda Gundler.

4 Children Die In Home Blaze

LORAIN, Ohio (AP)—Four children were killed and four others injured in a pre-dawn fire that destroyed their home, police and fire officials reported Friday.

The children were identified as Isiah Lucas, 19 months; Lavern Lucas, 6; Izalo Lucas, 10; and Nathan Aldridge, 16.

Injured were the father, Ike Lucas, and two other children, Arthur and Sonya. All suffered burns and smoke inhalation.

Fireman Daniel McNutt was treated for exhaustion and smoke inhalation and released.

Firemen said the mother, Mary Ann Lucas, was at work at the time. They said the building was engulfed in flames when the fire fighters arrived. Cause was undetermined.

The blowpipe, a weapon used by the Indian tribes of South America, is about 10 feet long.

Willie's Dillies

By BILL McGAFFNEY
Herald Sports Editor

We spent a busy day Thursday at the Ohio High School Athletic Association meeting at the Imperial House in Columbus. The topic under discussion was the Harbin Football Rating System concerning playoffs for the 1973 Ohio State High School football championships.

The system will operate the same as it did for the first football championships in 1972. Points will be awarded once again on three levels.

On the first level a team will earn points for each game it wins or ties. On the second level a team will receive points for each game a defeated opponent wins or ties. A team will gain points on the third level for each game that a defeated opponent's defeated opponents wins or ties. The score of the game does not enter into the picture. A team earns one point for defeating or tying a class A opponent, two points for AA and three points for AAA.

Each school will compete in its own class with the state divided into four regions. The four regional winners in each class will play semi final games on Nov. 16 with the finals all taking place on Nov. 23. The Class A championship will be held 1:30 p.m. at Ohio Wesleyan. Class AA title game will be 7:30 p.m. at Massillon High School. Once again the Class AAA championship tilt will be 7:30 p.m. in the Akron Rubber Bowl.

Circleville, Teays Valley and Logan Elm all fall into the Class AA Region 8, which consists mainly of teams in the southwest section of the state. The Section 8 winner will meet the Region 7 winner, mainly from the southeastern section of the state, 7:30 p.m. Nov. 16 at Lancaster High School in a semi final contest.

Westfall High School falls into the Class A Region 12 section, again the southwestern part of the state. The Region 12 champion will meet the Region 9 winner, northeast section of the state, 7:30 p.m. Nov. 16 at Upper Arlington High School.

Regional standings, including the number of points accumulated, by the teams, will be published after the fourth game of the season.

As Dr. Harold Myers, head of the OHSAA, put it at the meeting, it might not be the most perfect system to determine a state championship but it is the best thing that has come along at this time—We have to agree.

To keep our wits sharp, we often play a game where we make up a situation in a ball game and then decide what the official ruling should be to cover the play. For example, a baseball player hits a ball past the outfielder. Suddenly a pig appears on the field and eats the baseball. Have any idea how it should be ruled? We'd call it an inside the "pork" home run.

Our "fearless" forecast—Browns will twist the tail of the Lions. . . Bengals will chew up the Falcons.

Until next time, have a nice day-be a good sport.

Philadelphia Eagles Face Losing Season

CHESTER, Pa. (AP) — Despite a new coaching staff, a good draft and some apparently favorable trades, the Philadelphia Eagles face another losing season.

Even new head coach Mike McCormack is cautious in talking about the chances of his team in the season ahead.

"I don't know," says McCormack, when asked how much improvement can be expected from the team which finished last in the National Football Conference East last season with a 2-11-1 record.

"We're aiming for a winning season and that's going to be our goal," McCormack says. "We're going to be disappointed if we don't get it. I think the attitude right now is that the players are slowly beginning to believe that they can win, but we don't know how far that will carry us."

McCormack realizes the enormity of his job. He not only has to rebuild an offense that scored a record low 145 points for a 14-game season, but he has to engender a winning attitude in a franchise that has been a loser 10 of the last 11 years.

McCormack, who served his apprenticeship as an assistant under Paul Brown, Vince Lombardi and George Allen, will need all he learned from the three masters to reshape the Eagles.

McCormack started his job with the Eagles by attempting to strengthen the major weak spots—quarterback, running back, tight end and offensive line.

The new coach had two No. 1 selections in last winter's draft. He grabbed Southern California tight end Charley Young and offensive tackle Jerry Sisemore from Texas. On round two he took offensive guard Guy Morris of Texas Christian. All were on the College All-Star team that gave the Miami Dolphins a tough battle and should help.

McCormack's big gamble came in his search for a quarterback. He gave the Los Angeles Rams Harold Jackson, the league's No. 1 pass receiver; two No. 1 draft choices, and running back Tony Baker for 11-year veteran Roman Gabriel. Gabriel comes off a season in which he suffered a collapsed lung and had a sore arm. The Eagles expect to get two or three good seasons out of Gabriel and hope he'll be able to teach second-year passer John Reaves.

Chandler And Curtis In Lineup

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Cincinnati Bengals Coach Paul Brown plans to use his No. 1 and 2 draft choices of 1973 in the starting lineup against the Atlanta Falcons Saturday night.

Brown said wide receiver Isaac Curtis and tight end Al Chandler would join 12th round pick Charles "Booby" Clark when the Bengals go after their third win in five National Football League exhibition outings.

Clark, a 240-pound running back, has seen extensive backfield action.

"They figure in our plans and we want to give them the feel of a starting job," said Brown.

Ken Anderson will start at quarterback for the second week in a row, Brown added. Anderson went all the way in a 17-10 victory over Detroit last week.

The Bengals hold their final summer camp workout at Wilmington College today before breaking camp Saturday.

Ilie Nastase Faces

Defeat In Tennis

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Only four points separate flamboyant and controversial Ilie Nastase of Romania from defeat in the U.S. Open Tennis Championships.

The defending champion today resumed a match with Rhodesian Andrew Pattison which was halted with Pattison ahead 6-7, 2-6, 6-3, 6-4, 5-3.

Phillies Edge Past Montreal Expos

By FRED ROTHENBERG
Associated Press Sports Writer

Hail Cesar!
But Philadelphia third base coach Bill Demars couldn't do it Thursday night.

In fact, Demars had about as much chance of hailing Cesar Tovar in the last of the ninth as he would the proverbial New York cab on a rainy day.

"I make up my mind to score," said Tovar after he ran Demars' stop sign and slid home with the winning run in the Phillies 8-7 come-from-behind victory over the Montreal Expos.

Elsewhere in the National League, the St. Louis Cardinals edged the New York Mets 1-0 in 10 innings and the Los Angeles Dodgers squeezed by the Houston Astros 6-5.

In the American League action, the Milwaukee Brewers beat the Boston Red Sox 4-1, the Cleveland Indians blanked the Detroit Tigers 3-0 and the Minnesota Twins defeated the Texas Rangers 5-2 in 11 innings.

Dodgers 6, Astros 5
Pinchhitter Ken McMullen's eighth-inning single scored pinchrunner Jerry Royster with the tie-breaking run and gave the Los Angeles Dodgers a 6-5 victory over the Houston Astros.

Cardinals 1, Mets 0
You can't lose if the other team doesn't score, but you can't win if you don't.

Tom Seaver understands this and engaged in a holding action for nine innings, blanking the Cardinals while his Mets were running their scoreless string behind Seaver to 23 innings.

In the 10th, the Mets punished Seaver for the 24th time while the Cardinals scored the games only run, sending Seaver to his second consecutive 1-0 defeat.

Lou Brock opened the 10th with a double, moved up on Ted Sizemore's sacrifice and scored on Jose Cruz' one-out single.

Indians 3, Tigers 0
Gaylord Perry is a celebrity. He's just written a book. So he'll just have to get used to people touching him. Thursday night it was umpire Red Flaherty, rubbing his fingers around Perry's ears and on his uniform.

Flaherty was checking for the foreign substance that Detroit Manager Billy Martin thinks Perry uses to load up the baseball.

Flaherty couldn't find anything so Martin decided to show the umpire what to look for. He instructed Tiger starter Joe Coleman to doctor the ball in the eighth and Fred Scherman to load it up in the ninth.

But Perry's baseballs worked better than Detroit's as the Cleveland righthander, innocent until proven guilty, checked the Tigers on six hits 3-0.

Brewers 4, Red Sox 1
In the hot corner...weighing 180 pounds...from Boston, Massachusetts...Carl Yastrzemski.

And his opponent...weighing less than a pound...from Haiti...an American League baseball.

At least that's the way George Scott, Yastrzemski's former teammate, views the Boston superstar's Thursday workout at third base.

"All he needed was a pair of boxing gloves and I thought he'd be fighting George Foreman," Scott said after watching Yastrzemski butcher three balls which led to all four Milwaukee runs in a 4-1 victory "Hell, he's a 13-year veteran. He could get hurt over there."

Normally a leftfielder, Yastrzemski was filling in for the injured Rico Petrocelli. His courage is admirable and so is his honesty.

"Tell Boomer (Scott) the ball he hit past me to drive in the run should have been an error, too. But tell him I'll be back tomorrow night."

JW Song Wins

At Scioto Downs

JW Song, owned by Frank E. Moats, Williamsport, and driven by James Pollock, won the seventh race in Scioto Downs Thursday.

It was the first win of the season for the 5-year-old mare. Time of the mile was 2:10.

Twins 5, Rangers 2

Jim Bibby lost his perfect game in the first, his no-hitter in the fifth, his one-hitter in the eighth, his shutout in the ninth and his ballgame in the 11th when the Minnesota Twins struck for four runs and held on for a 5-2 victory.

Bibby struck out 15 while giving up six hits before he ran out of gas in the 11th.

Winning pitcher Bert Blyleven also pitched brilliantly, allowing 10 hits and fanning eight before leaving the game in the 11th.

"It was a little frustrating pitching against Bibby tonight," Blyleven said. "He pitched great. I was just trying to hold them to one run and hope we'd score one some way."

Phillips Ignores Rumors Of Trade

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP)— Jess Phillips says trade rumors, like some things in the past, are to be forgotten. "You can't let it faze you. A guy has too much to think about from day to day without thinking about that," said the 26-year-old Cincinnati Bengals running back.

Phillips is heading into his sixth season with Cincinnati and his name has been mentioned in the National Football League's trading circles.

The former All-American defensive back from Michigan State University shrugs it off. "You have it every day. You have to take it in stride. If it happens, it happens. But I'd like to stay. After five years with the same guys we've got something of a fraternal order here," said Phillips.

The Beaumont, Tex., native has a career average of 4.4 yards per carry and led the Bengals in ground gaining in 1969 and 1970.

But he lost his starting job to newcomer Doug Dressler at midseason last year and is now battling Essex Johnson, the club's rushing leader, for the other spot.

Phillips has scored on touchdown runs of 83 and 76 yards in his career.

"It will be a good fight. I think I have the knowledge to go along with blocking and running to help the club, I'm sure I'll play," said Phillips, who gained 207 yards in 48 carries last season.

A fourth round draft choice in 1968, Phillips has spent his career in the Bengals' organization.

There was a time when it looked like it might be a short career.

He wasn't even sure he was going to get the chance to play pro ball.

Phillips was serving eight months in prison on a felony charge when he learned he was drafted by Cincinnati. He was found guilty of forging a check.

"That's all behind me. I don't even think of it anymore," said Phillips.

"Cincinnati has really treated me great. I owe a great deal to coach Paul Brown," he said.

Time Catches Up With Nitschke

By FRANK BROWN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ray Nitschke's eyes were filled with tears. He had lost the battle with age—a more determined foe than any lineman he had faced in his 15-year National Football League career.

"There's no room on the Packer squad for three middle linebackers," he said, "so I'm retiring."

There was only one regret for the 36-year-old veteran, "...that I can't turn the clock back to 1958 and become a Packer all over again."

His voice wavered, his eyes grew more moist.

"The spirit's still there, but the numbers game got to me.

His expression was nothing new. The brash insistence of Time that aging stars leave the game they love has claimed untold numbers of veteran players.

Lee Admits To Spitters During Year

OAKLAND (AP) — "I don't want to see Jim Merritt be a scapegoat," said Boston Red Sox pitcher Bill Lee, risking a fine Tuesday when he admitted, "I've thrown a spitball at least once this year."

American League President Joe Cronin fined Texas Rangers pitcher Merritt an undisclosed amount of money Monday after Merritt admitted that he threw spit balls in a victory over the Cleveland Indians Sunday. However, Merritt called them "Gaylord (Perry) fastballs," alluding to the Indians' pitcher who has been accused by American League batters of throwing spitters.

"If they're going to make a grand jury case of it, I hope every pitcher in baseball who has experimented with spitters and different things will admit it," said Lee before Tuesday night's game against the Oakland A's.

"Almost every pitcher I know has tried something like that when things are going bad," added the Boston southpaw who is 14-8 this year.

Lee said most of his experimenting was in a Venezuelan winter league and that he used a petroleum jelly and other lubricants.

"But I've thrown four, five or six in regular American League games. Bobby Murcer hit one off the fence on me, but I've gotten some outs, too," Lee said.

Vinny Giles Advances In Golf Tournament

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Marvin "Vinny" Giles III, the defending U.S. Amateur golf champion, is getting tired of using his clubs. But he turned on enough speed to advance to today's fourth round in this year's tournament.

"I've played so much golf in the last two months, that I'm looking forward to getting home," the 30-year-old red-haired golfer said after ousting Danny Yates of Atlanta 3 and 2 Thursday at the plush, 70-year-old Iverness Club.

Bobby Tolan Rejoins Cincinnati

CINCINNATI (AP)—Pledging he's "holding no grudges," Cincinnati Reds' outfielder Bobby Tolan rejoined the team Thursday night ending a week-long standoff with management.

"I want to help the club win," Tolan said after avoiding further disciplinary action when he showed up at Greater Cincinnati Airport for a flight to San Diego.

The Reds, who levied $350 in fines against the slump-ridden outfielder for arguing with a front office official, threatened to take other steps if Tolan refused to show up for the San Diego series.

He reported without luggage and sporting several days growth of beard.

Tolan was barred from the Reds' clubhouse and bench last Saturday for abusive language and insubordination during an argument with Sheldon "Chief" Bender, the club's director of player personnel.

He was placed on the 15-day disabled list, but reinstated four days later when National League officials said the situation did not meet requirements.

However, he did not report to the club after being returned to the active list Tuesday and missed two games.

Tolan said he was in St. Louis visiting friends.

"I understand I'm not going to be starting and that Ken Griffey has done a good job in my place. That's good. I'm pulling for him. I just hope they—the Reds—will use me as the situation dictates. I hope they will hold no grudges against me," said Tolan.

The 29-year-old Californian refused to apologize for his actions after being informed he was removed from the active list. "I'm fed up with Cincinnati," he told reporters.

He has not suited up since last Friday when he was used as a pinchhitter. It was after that appearance that Bender requested Tolan have a complete physical examination.

In his absence, rookie Griffey has been hitting a sensational .529 with nine hits in 16 at-bats.

The Reds have also called on another outfielder, Ed Armbrister, and righthanded pitcher Dick Baney. Both become active effective Saturday.

Armbrister replaced pitcher Jim McGlothlin, who was traded to the Chicago White Sox Wednesday for a player to be named later.

Bucks Look Good Again This Year

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — "I think the Buckeyes are going to impress you this year," said Woody Hayes, the 23-year Ohio State football coach and always an optimist.

Of course, the 60-year-old veteran has ample support for such a statement for the defending Big Ten champions, 9-2 a year ago.

Back from the ninth-ranked team that took a 42-17 Rose Bowl beating are 18 regulars and 45 lettermen. Hayes even sees a silver lining in that defeat.

"The fact that most of this team had 16 extra practices after the season for the Rose Bowl will help," he said.

"And I can't remember when we had a better spring practice. There was real enthusiasm," said Hayes.

Hayes, first of all, has a wealth of quarterbacks and Cornelius Greene, striving to become the school's first starting black at that spot, is among the prime contenders.

Ohio State also has holdover regular Greg Hare, a strapping senior; Steve Morrison, who led the Buckeyes on their last touchdown drive in the Rose Bowl, and Dave Purdy.

Champ Henson, a bullish 6-foot-4, 224-pounder and the nation's leading major scorer last fall, returns at fullback. So does Archie Griffin, a freshman sensation in 1972, at a halfback.

The offensive line is anchored by All-Foreman And Roman

Get Ready For Fight

America tackle John Hicks.

"We think he's the best lineman in the country and the best player on our squad," Hayes said of the 6-3, 258-pound senior.

If the knees of All-America Randy Gradishar and Vic Koegel, two exceptional linebackers, and end Tom Marendt hold up, Ohio State again will be a defensive toughie.

All were out for part of last season and underwent off-season knee operations.

"They could make the difference between a good and a great team and they sure could make a damned good coach out of me this year," said George Hill, the team's defensive coordinator.

Hayes needs to fill only two holes on both the offense and defense.

Gone from the offense are tackle Merv Teague and guard Chuck Bonica. The departed defensive regulars are tackle George Hasenohrl and safety Rick Seifert.

TOKYO (AP) — Challenger Joe "King" Roman played baseball and champion George Foreman planned a final light gym workout on the eve of a world heavyweight boxing title fight Foreman is expected to win with an early round knockout.

"I don't agree," said Roman's manager, Bill Daly. "If that were the case they should just mail the check to the hotel."

"They are going to be surprised," he said of the local boxing writers who have been enthusiastic about Foreman's battering ram punches and showing sympathy for Roman, the No. 9 contender in both the World Boxing Council and World Boxing Association ratings.

No Lectures, Judge Rules

WASHINGTON (AP) — Judge John J. Sirica apparently is planning to cut short lucrative lecture tours set up by Watergate burglar James W. McCord Jr. and conspirator Jeb Stuart Magruder.

McCord's lawyer, Bernard Fensterwald, appeared before Sirica in U.S. District Court Wednesday to request permission for his client to make 17 lectures around the country next month arranged for him by a private speakers' bureau.

Special Watergate Prosecutor Archibald Cox opposed the tour, arguing in a letter that it would contribute to the already considerable pretrial publicity the Watergate case has received. Sirica agreed and ordered McCord to stay off the lecture circuit.

It was pointed out that Magruder plans a similar tour. Sirica then ordered both men and their lawyers to appear for a hearing on the subject next Wednesday. He made it clear he would apply the same standard to both men.

McCord and Magruder, former officials at the Committee for the Re-Election of the President, are awaiting sentencing for their roles in the Watergate break-in.

Burton Still Likes Liz

NEW YORK (AP) — "She's absolutely adorable; I love her," says actor Richard Burton about his wife Elizabeth Taylor.

But Burton's companion, attorney Aaron Frosch, says "I don't expect them to be reconciled."

A spokesman for the couple announced in New York July 31 that the pair would seek a divorce in Switzerland, the country of their legal residence.

Burton arrived here from Rome Wednesday. He replied "What divorce?" when asked about marital differences between the couple.

Burton is expected to visit Frosch at his Long Island home for two weeks. The actor is taking a rest from movie making in Italy.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Volkswagen of America has agreed to recall an estimated 112,000 of its Karmann Ghias to correct possible gasoline or gasoline vapor leaks into the passenger compartment.

Volkswagen promised the National Highway Transportation Safety Administration to initiate the recall to head off any fire hazard to occupants of the cars.

The recall involves all Karmann Ghias manufactured from August 1967, through April 1972.

Electronic Medicaid Forms Eyed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Electronic transmission of forms could cut processing time for Medicaid payments the Ohio department of Public Welfare said Thursday.

The department plans a Columbus test of a new billing system in which pharmacists would type the forms and transmit them directly into the welfare department's computer, a spokesman explained.

Forms now are punched at the department.

"The new system should cut about two weeks off our input time, that is from the day bills are received until they are fed into a computer," he said.

Health care providers have complained of delays up to six months in being paid by the department.

Cameron M. Close, acting executive director of the Ohio State Pharmaceutical Association, said processing time recently was cut to two from three months. He said pharmacists still are owed from $4 to $6 million by the department.

The department plans to test the system in another Ohio city after Columbus, the spokesman said. The still unchosen city will have a population of about 50,000, he added.

Plans are to have all Ohio pharmacies using new forms by January and other health care providers using the forms by March.

Circleville Band Members To Canvass

Circleville High School band members will canvas the entire city in a door to door campaign from 9 a.m. to noon Saturday.

The money raised with this drive and other projects is used to buy additional equipment, instruments, uniforms and to provide transportation for out of town engagements for both the junior and senior high bands.

UNWANTED DELIVERY—A truckload of top soil was dumped in the back yard of a home at the intersection of Route 23 and 762 1:15 p.m. Thursday. Lloyd Eugene Jewell, 46, Columbus, told Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff Robert Hoover he was forced off the road by an oncoming car. Jewell was uninjured.

4 Hospitalized, 59 Treated In Swim Pool Chlorine Leak

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Four children were hospitalized overnight and 59 were treated and released Thursday after they suffered lung irritations traced to a chlorine gas leak at a public swimming pool.

Hospital officials said the four were held for observation and were not seriously injured.

The leak was discovered Thursday afternoon when repairmen were sent to the West Side pool to fix a faulty regulator.

Two county health inspectors said they had ordered the pool at Burkam Park closed hours before the leak was found. The order was issued because of debris in the area, they said.

They said they returned to the pool Thursday afternoon and found it full of people. "We started getting the kids out of the pool, when the next thing you know we started smelling gas," an inspector said.

The inspector said, "We noticed some repairmen sitting about 50 yards away. When we asked them about it, they said it was a chlorine gas leak. . . They didn't warn nobody. They just took off. They didn't say anything." Pool personnel then told the children to hold their noses and run to escape the noxious fumes.

The children scattered over a five-block area as police and firemen searched for persons affected by the fumes and took them to four area hospitals.

Firemen were summoned to the scene to shut off the leaking chlorine tank.

Medical authorities said the gas irritates air passages and the lungs and makes it difficult to breathe.

Michigan Pen Sit-In Broken

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — State troopers used tear gas Thursday to break up a six-hour sit-in at Southern Michigan Prison. Order was restored and the situation was described as calm but tense, officials said.

Prison spokesman Dan Trudell said the gas was used to disperse some 120 inmates who refused to leave the prison's north yard.

The inmates were herded into a detention yard where they were searched before being returned to their cells, he said.

The incident erupted when about 15 men left the license plate shop, voicing a number of complaints, officials said. As word of their walkout spread, about 250 other inmates staged a sit-in in the prison yard at noon.

Half of those later obeyed an order to return to their cells, but the rest remained in the yard, officials said.

State troopers were called in and sealed off entrances to all buildings. The state troopers were stationed outside until they dispersed the holdouts with tear gas, spokesmen said.

Officials said the sitdown action was peaceful and no confrontation developed between guards and prisoners.

Deputy Warden Dale Foltz said wages and seniority rules appeared to be main grievances. Hot weather was also blamed for the incident at the facility, which houses about 2,400 inmates.

Showers Active Across Midwest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Midwest won some relief from the intense heat wave which has baked the eastern half of the nation for a week, but the East remained under a stagnant, hot and humid weather system.

Showers and thundershowers which moved through the midcontinent Thursday diminished in intensity early today, but remained active at scattered locations from the Great Lakes to Florida. Other showers dampened the dry northern Rockies and sprinkled parts of North Dakota and New England.

The East remained uncomfortably hot and humid before dawn with Boston, New York and Philadelphia reporting temperatures in the 80s. No relief was expected until after the Labor Day weekend.

Cooler air moved across the northern part of the nation, dropping temperatures into the 40s and 50s from the northern Pacific coast to western Montana, where temperatures may drop to the 30s tonight with a chance of snow predicted.

Winds up to 50 miles per hour whipped up dust storms around Phoenix and Yuma, Ariz., where visibility was briefly reduced to one-half mile. Phoenix has not received any measurable rain so far in August.

Power failures due to overloading of electrical circuits in the heat wave occurred in Ohio, Washington and Chicago. Some water shortages were noted in New York, Philadelphia and other cities where fire hydrants were opened by residents seeking relief from the heat.

A small tornado did minor damage to a residence just north of Milwaukee Thursday and high winds gusted at 58 miles per hour northwest of the city. No injuries were reported.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 43 at Flagstaff, Ariz., to 88 at Needles, Calif.

Letters We Luv

When Dad went to our local bank for a business loan, I asked him, "where does the bank get the money it lends you?" Dad explained that it comes mostly from local people who place their savings in the bank. Without these savings, any community would lack the funds to finance houses, farms, and business expansions. Dad said, "Community growth - employment too - depends on these local savings accounts."

The First National welcomes your savings which help the community to prosper and grow. We pay the highest interest allowed by law.
